Higgs & Johnson, Attorneys-at-Law, proudly continued its Bronze Sponsorship of the Junior Achievement of the Cayman Islands for 2011-12.

Junior Achievement is recognised as being the world's largest not-for-profit educational organization offering in and after-school practical business programs. These programs inspire and prepare young people to succeed in a global economy through educational programs focused on business, economics and free enterprise. Young participants are also taught concepts relating to honesty, trust and integrity, thereby empowering them with a more proficient understanding of the world and enabling their successful career paths. In Cayman, there are approximately 1,113 students from 8 schools participating in Junior Achievement programs and 150 volunteers giving of their time and resources.

Teresa Owen-Foster, Program Director, was on hand to receive the donation from Higgs & Johnson partners, Derek Jones, Gina Berry, Chris Narborough and Philip Boni. Mrs. Owen-Foster thanked Higgs & Johnson for its continued support, which was especially appreciated in the 20th anniversary year of Junior Achievement in the Cayman Islands. Mr. Derek Jones, Regional Managing Partner of Higgs & Johnson indicated that it was the Firm's pleasure to support such a meaningful program, adding that the Firm's motto 'Honor et Integritas' (Honor & Integrity) closely mirrored the concepts being instilled in young people by Junior Achievement.
