Higgs & Johnson, Attorneys-at-Law, once again teed up to support the Golf Scramble being organised by the Business & Professional Women's Club of the Cayman Islands ("BPWC"). Heather Anderson, President of the BPWC, commented that "each year the Scramble seems to get bigger and better with the support of community partners like Higgs & Johnson to whom we are extremely grateful".

Derek Jones, Regional Managing Partner of Higgs & Johnson, voiced strong support for the BPWC, indicating that the firm is "extremely pleased to play a role in supporting the BPWC's crucial initiatives". The BPWC is a non-partisan charter group of the International Federation of Business & Professional women founded in 1930. Its goals are primarily to work for high standards of service in business and the professions, stimulate and encourage in women a realisation and acceptance of their responsibilities to the community, locally, nationally and internationally and encourage women and girls to acquire education and occupational training. It also focuses on equal opportunities and status for women in economic, civil and political life in all countries. Since the club was introduced to the Cayman Islands by Dr. Margo Koeman in 1976, it has been actively involved in developing many projects which allow women to help women.

The annual golfing event will take place this year on Friday 25th November 2011 at the Britannia Golf Club and is one of the BPWC's primary means of raising funds for its many programs. These programs include 'Legal Befrienders,' which allows women in need free access to legal advice; and the 'Silent Witness March', an annual event which recognises the victims of domestic violence. "The range of community-building projects in which the BPWC is involved are remarkable and demonstrate the group's dedication," said Philip Boni, Partner of Higgs & Johnson and an avid golfer in his own right. Mr. Boni went on to encourage others to support the BPWC in this fun golfing event for an extremely good cause.
