Higgs Johnson Truman Bodden & Co Donates to the Cayman Heart Fund

Veronica Fierro and Vicki Chatfield both of Higgs Johnson Truman Bodden & Co present Dr Sook Yin of Cayman Heart Fund with a donation for a defibrillator at the Pines Retirement Home. They are pictured here with staff and residents from the Pines.

Higgs Johnson Truman Bodden & Co joined clients Mr. & Mrs. Agar in donating funds to the Cayman Heart Fund after they launched their appeal in January, 2009 to outfit the length and breadth of the Cayman Islands with life-saving automated external defibrillator (AED) machines.

Philip Boni, who is a Partner at the firm, added his support to this initiative: "Higgs Johnson Truman Bodden & Co is committed to supporting such important projects for the benefit of our local community. We sincerely hope that this support, in the form of new cardiac equipment, goes some way towards saving lives in our islands. We are pleased to join Mr. and Mrs. Agar in supporting the Cayman Heart Fund."

Sue Nicholson, who runs The Pines says: "We are immensely grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Agar for agreeing to sponsor this AED to be located at The Pines and to Higgs Johnson Truman Bodden & Co for their support. We sincerely hope that other members of the public, companies and organisations will follow their lead and sponsor other AEDs so they can be conveniently located at numerous points throughout the island."

Higgs Johnson Truman Bodden & Co wishes every success to the efforts of the Cayman Heart Fund in their campaign.
